LOCAL NEWS.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, APRIL 17. BUSINESS. - That there has been lately, and continues to be, an improvement in business in this city, all will admit; and that it should be cause for congratulation, and an incentive to hope for a brighter day in the affairs of our good old town at a not distant period, none will deny. The prices obtained for country produce here have been more than remunerative, and there has been an increase in the receipts to such an extent that, as we have before stated, our merchants are perfecting arrangements for the re-establishment of a Corn Exchange to facilitate operations. The fishing season, on the Potomac, has, thus far, proved more success ful than for some years past; and this import ant branch of business has had a tendency to improve other channels through which it ramifies. The re opening of the Canal has had a most beneficial effect upon trade and commerce -indeed, it has infused new life into our commerce, which had become almost entirely re stricted to the river and bay-save the regular lines of steamers plying between Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York, and this and the District cities. Already is the change in this respect noticeable, the great increase in the number of arrivals and departures of vessels from and for various ports along the coast, giving most gratifying evidence of the benefits to accrue to Alexandria from the revival of the coal trade. Two of the companies most extensively engaged in mining operations in the Alleghany coal region have established their principal agencies here, and made this the depot for the transhipment of all their coal .-Other of the Cumberland companies have wharf property improved here, and, it is supposed, in view of all the advantages possessed by Alexandria as a shipping point, that they will soon instruct their agents to repossess and commence operations from this place. A great desideratum to the trade of Alexandria is regular steam communication with the Maryland shore, opposite. From this point a large and lucrative trade could easily be drawn, our city being within the federal lines, were constituted market much more abundantly supplied, and a people willing and anxious to do business with us, but prevented from lack of facilities, accommodated. This is the natural market for all the section of country thus cut off from us, only for want of the means of adequate transportation, and it is hoped that before another season rolls round, the difficulty now existing will be obviated, and regular steam communieation, by the ferry, with our Maryland friends, e-established. The various Manufactories in this city, we are pleased to learn, are now all in the full tide of successful operation. Manufactories are what are most needed to make us prosperous and independent, and but few places (as we have recently proved by reference to many facts,) in the country present greater inducements for that branch of industry than Alexandria. Everything needful is at hand, and that manufactories can be prosecuted to great advantage here is evidenced by the success attending those already in operation; and in this connection the attention of capitalists is earnestly solicited to this point, as one possessing peculiar attractions. Few cities, in reality, possess a more worthy and energetic business community than Alexandria. Surrounded often by difficulties that would have deterred others similarly situated, manfully have they contended against such odds, and shown themselves worthy of the fullest confidence and liberal support from all with whom they have been brought into business relations. Alexandria has cause to be proud of her merchants and her mechanics, among the best in the country. In concluding this article, let us repeat a remark we have before made. The tide of adversity which has for so long been setting in upon us, is ebbing, and a brighter day is apa united effort strive to build up and make Alexandria what all would wish to see her-a parently dawning; let us all take hope, and by thriving, prosperous, business city. RELIGIOUS OBSERVANCES.—Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week, are kept with great solemnity by our Catholic fellow-citizens, in commemoration of the sufferings and death of our Saviour. To-morrow, usually called 'Maunday Thursday," Mass is celebrated with great rejoicing, in commemoration of the institution of the Holy Eucharist on that day, and at the "Gloria in Excelsis," all the bells are rung, being silent afterwards, as is also the bia. Delegations of colored people were presorgan, until Saturday at the same time. Af- ent from Baltimore and Annapolis, and from ter the Mass, the Host is conveyed in solemn this place, there were the Alexandria soldiers procession, to an altar decorated for that pur- and sailors, R. Gilchrist, marshal, with three pose, in a chapel, called "The Repository," where it remains during Friday, and the high a procession, music, banners, &c. At Gen. altar is stripped of its ornaments and coverings, in commemoration of the stripping of our Sa- and at places along the route where flags were viour in the house of Pilate. On Friday, call- displayed, the cheers were loud and long. In ed "Good Friday," no Mass is celebrated, but passing through the grounds of the Executive impressive ceremonies take place, commemorative of the Crucifixion, the cross being publing of handkerchiefs by the ladies, while the liely exposed to the veneration of the faithful, President himself stood upon the portion and who reverently kiss the representation of the acknowledged by a bow the recognitions that five wounds on the body of our Saviour. The 'Repository," is visited during the day, by crowds of worshippers. On Saturday, called "Holy Saturday," the ceremonial commences with the kindling and blessing of the new fire and incense, at the doors of the church; then follows a procession to the high altar, the trip- chasers and sellers. Mr. M. D. Ball at Fairple candle being lighted on the way from the fax Court House, is the local agent for this new fire. At the high altar twelve long les- firm for Fairfax county, and will give any insons from the old testament are read, and the formation desired. paschal candle, a wax taper four or five feet high, is blessed, and the five grains of incense fixed in it in the form of a cross, in remembrance of the five wounds of our Saviour, which he bore after his resurrection. The baptismal water, to be used during the year, is then solemnly consecrated, and if there are any candidates, baptism is administered. The mourning is then removed from the high altar which is decorated with lights and flowers, and the solemn Mass of the Resurrection is commenced, the organ bursting forth, and the bells pealing out, at the 'Gloria in Excelsis." All these ceremonies are of great antiquity, dating back to the earliest ages of Christianity, ande are performed in both the Latin and Greek

Churches, as well as in all the Oriental communions. The services, this year at St.

Mary's Church, commence at 9 o'clock each

LEGAL DECISION .- In the United States Circuit Court, yesterday, in Baltimore, the case of Francis L. Smith, of this city, administrator of Aaron Leggett vs. William and Francis X. Ward, was heard and decided .-The suit was brought to collect three bonds executed in August, 1860, and payable at the office of the Farmers' Bank, in this city. One of the bonds was left at the bank, and the other two were not. The defendants in August and December, 1861, deposited about $7,000 in Virginia bank notes, then much depreciated, in the Farmers' Bank, to the credit of plaintiff. The cashier endorsed the deposits as credits on the first bond, and entered them as cash to the credit of plaintiff. In addition to this defence, it was claimed by defendant that the plaintiff having in May, 1861, gone into the Confederates lines and remained there until the close of the war was not entitled to recover interest during the war.

Judge Giles ruled, first, that the cashier of the bank had no authority, under the circumstances, to receive the depreciated Virginia bank notes and credit them for and on account of plaintiff. Second, that the Farmers' Bank at Alexandria, where the notes were payable, agents by plaintiff to receive payment of the notes-that the defendants could have paid the notes to the bank when they fell due, and, not having done so, the plaintiff was entitled to receive interest, notwithstanding he was in the Confederate lines. The jury, under these instructions, rendered a verdict for plaintiff for

MANASSAS GAP RAILROAD. -The repairs to the track, and the relaying of the rails on the Manassas Gap Railroad, from Manassas was bound over in the sum of $100 security, richer in Phosphate, but has less Amonia. For Station to Piedmont, a distance of thirty-four to keep the peace for six months. miles, was completed on Monday last, and that portion of the road is now in excellent condition, and will have trains passing over it as soon as the switches and turn-outs are adjusted, to accomplish which, will require, it is supposed, but three or four days, at the utmost, because arrangements have been made to bring the stockholders of the Company, residing along the line of the road, over it, to this city, prior to Wednesday, the 24th inst., when their called meeting will be held. Another section of this road, that between Strasburg and Tim berville, thirty five miles long, is, with the exception of the bridges, also in good condition-the road bed and rails having been undisturbed since they were originally laid .-The running stock of the road now consists of six locomotives, fifty freight cars-thirty box and twenty gondola, and one mail and baggage

LOCAL BILLS .- In the State Senate, on Monday, House bill to amend and re-enact the 10th section of an act entitled "an act to incorporate the Southern Protection Insurance Company of Alexandria, Va.," was passed: as was, also, House bill to repeal the act passed February 16th, 1866, entitled "an act to authorize a special police to search for stoien property," so far as it applies to the city of Alexandria. The Committee on Roads reported House bill disposing of the State's interest in the Alexandria, Loudoun and Hampshire Railroad on certain conditions, without amendment. Subsequently taken up, and laid on the table. House bill relating to the Alexandria Canal and Railroad was taken up, and made the order of the day for yesterday.
